

Active verbs and consistent focus

Rewrite the following sentences to get rid of use of passive or to-be verbs and to give the sentences a consistent focus.

1. After the animators finish their scenes, the production designer arranges the clips according to the storyboard. Synchronization notes must also be made for the sound editor and the composer.
2. According to Rodriguez, when he was growing up Spanish was seen as a family language.
3. It is noticeable that Adele is concerned for Edna.
4. Throughout the story "No Name Woman" there was always a feeling of despair being placed on the reader.
5. Every student has his or her own ideal method of education, which means that minor variations between schools will hinder a student's ability to learn.