

Grammar Review 1: Fragments and Run-ons

name:

Repair the fragments and revise the run-ons below in any way you wish. However, try to vary the techniques you use. Be creative. In some cases, you may have to make up a subject or a verb.

1. Although his mother held his hand and told him to stay close.
2. The teacher and the students teach each other, there are no boundaries.
3. Immigrants who deal with many obstacles, such as family separation, racial insults, language barriers, and lack of support.
4. Nowadays nothing has changed, people still think the same.
5. High school was boring and dull for me, therefore I spent more time outside of school every day than in class taking notes.
6. Boot camp is the epitome of the banking concept of education. Drill sergeants commanding and privates obeying or facing punishment.
7. Roger gets up to open the door and is startled at what he sees, at the door is his ex-wife Michelle with his son Joe.
8. The banking system of education, which is a way to inhibit creativity in students and to make them lose their independent thought.
9. Almost every day I think of where I have come from and how it has changed my whole life, living in two different countries and cultures has changed me as a person.
10. The great thing about freewrites and rough drafts is that they aren't judged as finished work. Resulting in no limitations while writing.